CH 800

The chassis units offer a unique coin-handling solution. The main difference between the models is how the coin reject of the coin selector is activated. Being a complete unit it is simple to install – just mount the CH 800 into the machine.

electronic anti-pin system

We offer three options: ES 003.S (standard), ES 003.F (with anti-strimming) or ES 003.A (self-activating).

electronic coin selector

Standard solution incorporates the EMP 820.xx. Alternatively the EMP 860.xx can be offered. This coin selector opens completely upon reject (coin jams removed more easily).

escrow

Choice between a solenoid-driven (E 108) or motor-driven (E 105) escrow.

EMR 100

The motor reject is designed for applications in conjunction with electronic coin selectors from the EMP 800 series (models 820, 830, 840, 860, 870, 880). Due to the low current consumption of this motor reject, it may also be adopted to battery-operated machines.

The motor reject is driven by a direct current motor. The home position is detected with the help of a micro switch. A protection circuit is on the back of the motor in order to secure the motor and the micro switch against wrong polarity or overload (electronic motor brake).
